WINGER AND HERO HUSBAND SEPARATE—Singer Jean Fennell and her pilot husband, Capt. John Curtis, shown here following their wedding seven years ago, have announced their separation. Capt. Curtis is the pilot who held Miss Fennell's affair in London's Regent Hotel in 1942 after the crash of an aircraft which won 38 of the 39 people aboard to their deaths. Miss Fennell recovered from injuries inflicted by enemy Capt. Curtis.

NOT "BUBBING" TROUBLE—Trina's no doubt, she's a smart horn who knows the wisdom of the new ways. "An apple a day keeps the doctor at bay," and Trina has daily value from some Dr. Laurel Foxworth, of Indiana. Trina has the son of the house, a considered as much a son as the doctor's four boys.

LUCKY ON TOPSIDE ONLY—Good luck for the destroyer, but for any sailing schooner, they're what the property element in the Mediterranean waters signifies. H.M.S. Barren, stationed at the bottom of the Mediterranean, is a new British-built sailing ship. The ship, which runs along the coast of the Mediterranean, is a new British-built sailing ship. A UNIQUE AWARD FOR A CANINE HERO—Silver award-winner RCMP Alvin's leading dog is the first animal in the history of the RCMP to be officially awarded for gallantry. Here RCMP Constable E. P. Brown presents him with an engraved collar as Constable Keith Smith stands by. River tracked down three men hauled in Vancouver early last month and recovered the bulk of $27,000 in holdup loot.

THIS IS A MODEL of the new National Library to be built three blocks west of the Parliament buildings in Ottawa. Construction of the $10,000,000 structure is scheduled to start at the spring of 1950. At present librarians have catalogued 500,000 volumes to be housed in the library.

KEYS TO PURSUALITY—White kidnap bag, left, is locked to the chain clasp (fashions with these large costume keys of gold and silver-toned lightweight metal). The striking fashion economy is a Puritan original. At right, fashioner Bill Grant in London, England, carries a treasury of showcase pieces in three volumes, which opens to reveal not only of window, but a place for each of the room. The items speak volumes for the display at the recent London Goods Industries' Fair.

QUEEN'S TREAT FOR BEE—Margaret Campbell, the nation's Cherry Pie Queen, delivers a delectable sample of her delectable pies to the White House, where it is received on behalf of President Eisenhower by House Committee, administrative assistant. The 25-year-old Cherry Pie Queen, N.Y. high school senior won the 23rd annual national Cherry Pie baking contest at Chicago, Ill.

MATCHLESS—Even though it may not be the smallest book in the world as claimed, it would be a guide to let her have a smaller volume in existence. This tiny book, on display in Monte Carlo, Monaco, is compared in size to the head of a pocket-size match.

SAVES INFANT'S LIFE—A 17-year-old high school first aid student Jane McAllister holds a newborn baby, Gary Lee Potharst at a St. Louis hospital after saving him twice with artificial respiration. The infant had bronchitis.

THESE ARE ARTIST'S conceptions of two new Soviet jet fighters. In the top photo is the experimental Vostok-idea intercepter with an angle of climb exceeding 70 degrees. In the lower photo is the TAC-21 intercepter described as a "masterpiece of simplicity."

BOSS TAKES HER SON TO EUROPE—Winthrop Rockefeller, Jr., and his wife, Mrs. Winthrop, are to board the liner Queen Mary in New York City on Sunday. Mrs. Rockefeller, 37, is the first woman to make headlines throughout the United States. A full-page hurricane will. A mosquito bite bite bite in the nose, Mrs. Rockefeller, 37, is the first woman to make headlines throughout the United States. A full-page hurricane will. Local and District

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Crawford, who have been spending the winter at Medicine Hat, arrived back Sunday to again take up residence in Delia.

The weather was somewhat cool over the week end, with a few temperatures. Every-where it is drying up fast, and at present writing, shows a rather clear and sunny, with the temperature at above.

Bill Sinclair, of Calgary, was a visitor in Delia for a few days last week, and called at this office to renew his subscription. In the course of conversation he spoke of the proposed new water and sewage system for Delia. When this is assured he told us to forget to mention that he intends to come back and live in Delia—acquire a lot and build a house—his property taxes are rather high in Calgary.

The new proposed water and sewage by-laws went over big as we predicted they would. Proprietary voters turned out in full force, and voted overwhelmingly for both water and sewage. There was just the unlucky number 13, who voted against, and some out-and-out enthusiasts are jubilant at the result. Mrs. Olive Martin, the town clerk, was returning officer, and had a strenuous all day job, which she carried out most efficiently.

Over 40 neighbors and friends, called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Grant on Sunday, April 3rd, to wish them all the best on the occasion of their 25th Wedding Anniversary. A list of several pieces of Rose Pattern China were presented to Mr. and Mrs. Grant, from all their friends, together with the very best wishes for many more years of Happiness and Good Fortune. A delightful lunch was served by the ladies.

Cards of Thanks

I wish to thank my many friends for the lovely flowers, presents and cards, they sent me while a patient in the Hospital. Mrs. J. Deall.

I wish to thank my numerous friends in Delia for letters, cards, fruit and candies, and many other kindnesses received, while I was a patient in Hanna hospital. Charles Lees.

We would like to take this opportunity, on our departure from Delia, to thank the numerous friends and well-wishers for their many kindnesses and co-operation in our management of the Delia Auxiliary. We would like also to extend sincere thanks and appreciation to the local branch Canadian Legion and Ladies' Auxiliary, for the wonderful party given in our honor, and to tell everyone how much we are going to miss them, and our regrets in leaving Delia. Jack, Ann, and Charlie Bremner.

UNEMPLOYMENT

Commenting on House of Commons unemployment debate, Edmonton Journal finds it "suggests that most of our public men have no more idea how to deal with unemployment than they had in the thirties." But in it the function of "our public men" to deal with unemployment? Essential reason why men and women are jobless in Canada today is that they will not accept going work at going wages. They prefer to be unemployed, and in a free country must be permitted to exercise that preference. Only in dictatorships can people be compelled to take jobs they don't want, at wages they don't like.

People in real poverty, as National City Bank points out in its March business review, like to take whatever work they can get. They cannot afford, as most unemployed evidently can, the luxury of not working. Bank correctly points out that "unemployment" covers a wide range of circumstances. At one extreme are persons who need work, and are working hard at the job of finding a job. At the other are persons who would accept work if an attractive offer were made to them, but are not making any real effort to find a position. In between these extremes are people who are seeking work with widely varying degrees of persistence and enthusiasm.

Thus, unemployment is not just a measure of the failure of employers to provide enough jobs. It also reflects the fact that people often are choosy about the jobs they will take, willing to wait for what they want, and reluctant to change employer, occupation or residence.

Applicable to Canada, as well as to U.S., in bank's remark: "Amid all the talk of an unemployment problem, it is remarkable that no one calculates the status of unfilled jobs. That such exist in large numbers is evidenced in the turnover statistics and the Help Wanted advertisements, to say nothing of the chronic shortages of domestic help."

Pertinent is warning of Senator T. A. Cress, as expressed in a letter to Ottawa Journal, that if Canada requires the government to find jobs for people out of work, "it will soon be obliged to go much further and to direct people to areas where they shall work and finally, as to what wages they shall receive."
